THE UNFORGOTTEN.

BY E. A. C.

Spring smiled upon the lovely land,
This mother-land of ours,
And gently flung o'er brow and hand
Bright coronals of flowers.
"Arise, fair mother-land," she cried,
"And deck once the bed
Where sleep the children of thy pride—
The unforgotten dead!"

Sons of thy sorrow and thy pride—
Love hath no fitter name
For those who gathered at thy side
And battled for thy fame.
And smile, sad mother—thro' thy tears
Lift up thine eyes and see
The promise of the harvest years,
They died to win for thee.

They sowed in duty, and the cost
Was paid on hill and plain.
They sowed in honor—nought is lost—
Such knighthood to maintain.
Ours the repose of strength long tried
In well-defended trust,
Ours the bright wealth of stainless pride
Dimmed by no venal dust.

O, sleepers, when the ripened grain
Its rich abundance yields,
If we forget the toil and pain
Which ploughed those bloody fields,
Then may the glittering sheaves which cost
Such agony and death,
Be swept away like dead leaves tossed
Upon the storm-wind's breath.

HISTORICAL.

O one seems to question the fact that Mr. J. B. Welsh, manufacturer of furniture in this circ rer of furniture in this city, was the first person to suggest the building of a monument to the private soldiers and sailors of the Confederate army and navy on Libby Hill. His suggestion met with the ready sympathy of an old gentleman named Boswell, who has since died. Capt. Frank Cunningham, the present City Collector, talked the matter over with the two gentlemen already named, and they together soon enlisted the interest and sympathy of many other citizens who were neigh-Frequent conferences resulted in a meeting in the Marshall-Club rooms, in the large old residence which was once the home of a Mr. Lipscombe. This meeting occurred on the 1st of December, 1887, and Hon. D. C. Richardson, formerly Police Justice of the city, and now a practicing lawyer, was called to the chair, and Carlton McCarthy was made secretary pro tem. On motion of Mr. John A. Curtis the Chair appointed a committee of five to prepare business for the meeting, and the committee named was as follows: John A. Curtis, R. S. M. Valentine, J. C. Dickerson, W. H. Curtis, and B. H. Berry. The committee soon made the following report:

"Resolved, That we do hereby organize ourselves into an association to be known as 'The Confederate Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument Association.' The object of the Association is to raise money for the erection on Libby's Hill, in this city, of a Monument to perpetuate the memory and deeds of the Private Soldiers and Sailors of the Confederate States.

The officers of the Association shall be: One President, six Vice-Presidents, one Secretary, one Treasurer, and a Board of Directors, consisting of the above-named officers and six members from each ward of the city—all to be elected by the Association for the term of one year.

Your committee presents the following names for your action:

The State Bank of Virginia

Jackson Ward—Charles P. Bigger, R. Taylor Pemberton, David Wilson, William J. Gentry, Thomas W. Cox, John W. Beveridge."

At the same meeting it was resolved to hold a mass-meeting in Corcoran Hall on Friday the 9th of December, and a committee of five persons was appointed to prepare a bill incorporating the Association. The Chair named the following committee: William H. Curtis, Benjamin H. Berry, Charles V. Meredith, George L. Christian, and T. Wiley Davis.

The Chair having suggested the desirability of beginning at once the practical work of raising money, those who were present began liberally to subscribe, and before the meeting adjourned $725 was subscribed by those present.

At a meeting held on the 8th of December, 1887, Judge George L. Christian, on behalf of the Sub-Committee on Charter, presented a draft of a bill incorporating the Association, which was accepted, and the committee was directed to present the bill to the Legislature.

At a meeting held on the 29th of December, 1887, a committee of five was appointed to make arrangements for a mass-meeting at the Richmond Theatre, and the Chair appointed for that purpose the following:

The speakers selected for that occasion were Rev. Moses D. Hoge, D. D., Hon. John W. Daniel, Rev. S. A. Goodwin, D. D., and Capt. Gordon McCabe.

At a meeting held on the 27th of January, 1888, the Secretary presented a certified copy of a resolution of the City Council of Richmond appropriating five thousand dollars ($5,000) to aid in the erection of the monument, and donating Marshall Park, on Libby Hill, as a site for the monument.

At the same meeting Lee Camp of Confederate Veterans was invited to appoint a committee of ten of their members to co-operate with the Association in the furtherance of its purpose, and the Camp was invited to attend in a body the mass-meeting to be held at the Richmond Theatre on Monday the 6th of February, 1888.

At the same meeting, under a resolution offered by Mr. C. V. Meredith, the Chair appointed Committees on Finance, Design, Lectures and Addresses, Concerts and Fairs, Collections, Circular Letters, Press Notices, and Foreign Subscriptions. These committees were formed as follows:

Finance—George L. Christian, W. J. Westwood, John H. Frischkorn, Andrew Pizzini, Jr., T. H. Ellett, Charles L. Todd, Charles P. Bigger, and William H. Cullingworth.

Design—John S. Ellett, T. Wiley Davis, Beverly T. Crump, W. E. Cutshaw, L. D. Crenshaw, Jr., E. T. D. Myers, and R. T. Pemberton.

Lectures and Addresses—B. H. Berry, Joseph B. Welsh, Charles H. Hasker, James T. Ferriter, F. H. Habliston, E. D. Starke, and Thomas Cox.

Concerts and Fairs—N. V. Randolph, R. S. M. Valentine, James E. Phillips, Capt. E. J. Levy, Sol. Cutchins, Charles E. Wingo, Joseph B. Welsh, and William J. Gentry.

Collections—B. F. Cook, E. J. Levy, Tazewell Ellett, W. T. Carrington, David Wilson, W. E. Cutshaw, John A. Curtis, Robert S. Bosher, J. C. Dickerson, James E. Phillips, J. Taylor Ellyson, C. V. Meredith, E. A. Saunders, W. J. Gentry, and Charles L. Brown.

Circular Letters, Press Notices, and Foreign Subscriptions—D. C. Richardson, Carlton McCarthy, J. Taylor Ellyson, John A. Curtis, James B. Pace, George L. Christian, and N. V. Randolph.

At a meeting held on the 3d of May, 1888, W. E. Cutshaw, T. Wiley Davis, and Lewis D. Crenshaw, Jr., were appointed a committee to secure a design or plan for the monument. At this meeting the Treasurer made a report, which is inserted here in order to show the small beginning of the great enterprise:

Receipts to May 1, 1888						8120	25
Expenditures						34	57
Balance in the treasury						$ 85	68

At a meeting held on the 5th of September, 1889, Mr. C. V. Meredith reported that proceedings for the condemnation of the land contiguous to the site of the monument were completed, and that the Council would probably appropriate funds for the purchase at once. This meant that the city would own the whole of Libby Hill down to Main and Rocketts streets.

At a meeting held on the 26th of September, 1889, Col. W. E. Cutshaw, on behalf of the Committee on Design, recommended that the Association adopt as a model for the monument Pompey's Pillar, near Alexandria, Egypt, and presented with his report complete drawings of the pillar, giving dimensions, construction, ornamental details, etc., and after a full statement from Colonel Cutshaw the Association adopted the following resolutions:

1st. That the Confederate Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument shall be a reproduction in granite of the column near Alexandria, Egypt, commonly called Pompey's Pillar. The column to be surmounted by a bronze figure of a private soldier of the Confederate army.

2d. That the column shall consist of a base, die, and capital, essentially as in the original pillar at Alexandria, and a shaft of the same proportions and measurements as the shaft of the original, but composed of thirteen blocks, typifying the thirteen Confederate States.

6th. That as soon as the Engineer can furnish drawings, dimensions, and estimates of the cost of the successive stones to compose the shaft, appeals shall be made to the Legislatures of the thirteen Confederate States, asking from each a contribution of one of the blocks, or a sum of money sufficient to purchase one.

7th. That all the committees of the Board are hereby urged to prosecute their assigned work, to the end that the task assumed by the Association may be taken up at once, and prosecuted without delay to completion.

On the 9th of April, 1890, the Association resolved to push the work on the monument as far as the fifth dressed stone, which would carry the work up to the round-moulded base course of the shaft. Mr. James Netherwood being the lowest bidder for this work, the contract was awarded to him, and he immediately began the work.

On the 26th of February, 1891, the Committee on Foreign Subscriptions was authorized to correspond with the governors of the thirteen States lately composing the Confederate States with a view to securing contributions, and some effort was made in this direction, but without success. It was at this meeting that Col. W. P. Smith, State Commander of Confederate Veterans, and Past Commander Lee Camp, C. V., was requested to use his endeavors to enlist the sympathy and aid of all the Confederate Veteran Associations throughout the State.

On the 13th of March, 1891, Lee Camp appointed the following committee to co-operate with the Confederate Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument Association: J. Taylor Stratton, N. V. Randolph, James T. Ferriter, John Murphy, and W. P. Smith. At the same meeting the Treasurer reported that his

GEORGE W. ALLEN & CO., Agents, No. 1301 Main St, and Company's Wharf, Rocketts. contributions were made by the citizens of Richmond generally. At this meeting Col. W. P. Smith reported that Lee Camp had voted the Association a contribution of one thousand dollars ($1,000).

At a meeting held on the 2d of June, 1891, the following committee was appointed to solicit special contributions from the citizens of Richmond: Lewis D. Crenshaw, John B. Cary, Robert S. Bosher, George L. Christian, John A. Curtis, J. Taylor Ellyson, and W. E. Cutshaw. The Treasurer reported a balance on hand of $2,094.41. It was at this meeting that, on motion of Mr. T. Wiley Davis, the engineer in charge (Col. W. E. Cutshaw) was authorized to contract with Mr. Netherwood for the completion of the stone work of the Monument, at a cost of twelve thousand dollars ($12,000), and it is due Mr. Netherwood to say, at this point, that although the Association had scarcely a dollar in hand, he at once commenced the work and pushed it vigorously forward until the last stone was laid. His confidence in the success of the undertaking was simply wonderful, and he never hesitated to work at any time as cheerfully and vigorously as if the scheme was backed by millions.

At a meeting held on the 31st of August, 1891, Col. John B. Cary reported that Hon. A. M. Keiley would deliver a lecture at Mozart Hall on the 15th of September for the benefit of the monument fund. The lecture was delivered to one of the largest lecture-audiences ever gathered in Richmond, and was pronounced by those who heard it a most intensely interesting lecture. It was, moreover, a decided financial success.

At a meeting held on the 28th of December, 1891, the Association received the cheering information that House Bill No. 39, Virginia Legislature, appropriating thirty-two hundred dollars ($3200) would probably pass to its third reading about the 7th of January. The bill was finally passed by both branches of the Legislature and approved by the Governor, and the amount appropriated was used to pay for the capital of the column. At that same meeting Mr. William H. Curtis reported that arrangements had been made for three performances of the opera "Pinafore," and these performances came off in due time before crowded audiences, and added materially to the funds of the Association.

At a meeting held on the 1st of November, 1892, the Association took action on two important matters. On motion of Mr. Curtis a committee of three—consisting of Colonel Cutshaw, Colonel Cary, and J. Taylor Ellyson—was appointed to confer with the ladies of the Hollywood and Oakwood Memorial Associations with a view to holding a grand bazaar for the benefit of the monument fund. And at the same meeting the Committee on Design was authorized to secure a model for the statue to surmount the column, and were left at liberty to select their own artist. The committee was, however, required to submit any model they might secure to the Association for adoption.

At a meeting held in July, 1893, the Association acknowledged the receipt of over fourteen thousand dollars ($14,000) from the bazaar conducted by the ladies of Richmond, and suitable resolutions of thanks were adopted. At the same meeting the Association adopted a design for the statue which was reported by the Committee on Design, and the contract was awarded to Mr. W. L. Sheppard, and the President and Secretary were authorized to execute a contract with Mr. Sheppard for the modelling and casting of the colossal statue in bronze.

At a meeting held on the 24th of February, 1894, it being apparent that the work on the monument would be all completed and the statue in place by that time, it was resolved to unveil the monument on the 30th of May, 1894, and a committee of five persons was appointed, with full authority to take charge of all the ceremonies incident to that event, the committee to be composed of the President as Chairman ex-officio, and the following: John B. Cary, N. V. Randolph, J. T. Ellyson, George L. Christian, and Charles L. Todd. Subsequently W. E. Cutshaw and William H. Curtis were added to the committee. At the same meeting a committee of five were appointed, with full power to select an orator for the occasion, and the committee was named as follows: John B. Cary, John A. Curtis, Beverly T. Crump, C. E. Wingo, and George L. Christian. At the same meeting Lee Camp, Confederate Veterans, and Pickett Camp, Confederate Veterans, were invited to co-operate with the Monument Association in the unveiling ceremonies.

The entire cost of the granite work on this monument has been about twenty-four thousand dollars ($24,000), and when completed by the addition of the bronze will have cost over thirty thousand dollars ($30,000). The whole of the structure has been built under the careful supervision of

Col. W. E. Cutshaw, City Engineer of Richmond, and engineer in charge of the monument, and has been executed by Mr. James Netherwood.

The statue surmounting the shaft was designed by Mr. Wm. L. Sheppard, of Richmond, and modelled at the studio of Caspar Buberl, New York, by the combined labors of Messrs. Sheppard and Buberl. The casting was done by the Henry-Bonnard Bronze Company, of New York city.

It may be truly said that this splendid tribute to the soldier and sailor is the gift of the people of Virginia and the South. Men and women, boys and girls, all did their share in the work necessary to raise this noble The space allotted to this brief statement forbids the mention by name of the hundreds of enthusiastic workers in this great enterprise. The ladies who conducted the bazaar certainly deserve and will surely have unqualified praise and lasting gratitude for the splendid and selfsacrificing labors which they freely gave this good work, and which were handsomely rewarded by substantial returns, in the shape of money, to so great an amount that, as a result, the Association was instantly relieved of all embarrassment, and was enabled to push the work to completion, confident of their ability to pay the last dollar of its cost. There are hundreds of persons whose names we cannot record here who will look upon this completed shaft and derive quiet satisfaction from the knowledge they have of their own sacrifices made in order to contribute their share to the upraising of a dignified and enduring monument to the Confederate soldiers who have laid down their lives, and to those also who now await their call to the Great Assembly. The inscriptions on the Monument are purposely brief and simple, but yet comprehensive. Let him who looks upon this shaft seek the history of the men it memorializes in the many books which have come from the hearts of those who survived the downfall of their country.

After four years of arduous service, marked by unsurpassed courage and fortitude, the Army of Northern Virginia has been compelled to yield to overwhelming numbers and resources.

I need not tell the survivors of so many hard-fought battles, who have remained steadfast to the last, that I have consented to this result from no distrust of them; but, feeling that valor and devotion could accomplish nothing that could compensate for the loss that would have attended the continuation of the contest, I have determined to avoid the useless sacrifice of those whose past services have endeared them to their countrymen.

By the terms of agreement, officers and men can return to their homes, and remain there until exchanged.

You will take with you the satisfaction that proceeds from the consciousness of duty faithfully performed; and I earnestly pray that a merciful God will extend to you His blessing and protection.

With an unceasing admiration of your constancy and devotion to your country, and a grateful remembrance of your kind and generous consideration of myself, I bid you an affectionate farewell.

ROSES OF MEMORY.

BY A. C. GORDON.

A rose's crimson stain,
A rose's stainless white,
Fitly become the immortal slain
Who fell in the great fight.
When Armistead died amid his foes,
Girt by the rebel cheer,
God plucked a soul like a white rose
In June time o' the year.

The blood in Pickett's heart
Was of a ruddier hue
Than the reddest bloom whose petals part
To welcome heaven's dew,
I think the fairest flowers that blow
Should greet the life-stream shed
In that historic long ago
By this historic dead.

The immemorial years
Such valor never knew
As poured a flood of crimson blood
At Gettysburg with you.
Living and dead, in faith the same,
I see you on that height,
Crowned with the rosy wreath of fame
Won in the fatal fight.

Not these had made afraid King Arthur's mystic sword,— Not Bayard's most chivalric blade, Nor Gideon's, for the Lord. Yours was the strain of high emprise, Yours the unfaltering faith,— The honor lofty as the skies, The duty strong as death.

When Douglas flung the heart
Of Bruce amid his foes,
And said: "He leads. We do not part;
I follow where he goes";

No mightier impulse stirred his soul
Than that which up you height
Moved you with Pickett toward the goal
Of freedom, in that light.

The fair goal was not won,
The famous fight was lost;
But never shone the all-seeing sun
On more heroic host.
Your deeds of mighty prowess shame
All deeds of derring-do
With which Time's bloody pages flame,
—Hail and farewell to you!

Unto the dead farewell!

They are hid in the dark and cold;
And the broken shaft and the roses tell
What is left of the tale untold,
They are deaf to the martial music's call
Till a judgment dawn shall break
When the trumpet of Truth shall proclaim to all:
"They perished for my sake!"

Let them be quiet here
Where birds and blossoms be;—
And hail to you, who bring the tear
And the rose of memory
To water and deck each lowly grave of those, who in God's sight
With loyal hearts their hearts' blood gave
For the eternal right!

Alike for low and high
The roses white and red;
For valor and honor cannot die,
And they were of these dead.
The private in his jacket of gray
And the general with his star
The Lord God knighted alike that day,
In the red front of War.

"OUR DEAD."

BY FATHER RYAN.

Gather the sacred dust
Of the warriors tried and true,
Who bore the flag of our nation's trust,
And died for me and you.

Wherever the brave have died
They should not rest apart;
Living they struggled side by side—
Why should the hand of death divide
A single heart from heart?

Gather them each and all From the private to the chief; Came they from cabin or lordly hall, Over their dust let the fresh tears fall Of a nation's holy grief.

No matter whence they came,
Dear is their lifeless clay—
Whether unknown or known to fame,
Their cause and country were the same—
They died—and wore the gray.

Gather the corpses strewn
O'er many a battle plain;
From many a grave that lies so lone,
Without a name and without a stone—
Gather the Southern slain.

And the dead shall meet the dead,
While the living o'er them weep;
For the men who Lee and Stonewall led,
And the hearts that once together bled,
Should now together sleep.

About Horse Shoes.

* * * * * *

The shoeing of horses with iron has added more to the convenience and wealth of man than perhaps any other invention of the ages. We find it practiced by the ancients with very crude forms of hand-made shoes, which were both ugly and burdensome to the animal, but in a fashion served the intended use. In modern times shoes are made lighter and of better forms, which add greatly to the appearance and endurance of the animal. They have been brought to a great degree of perfection in both quality of material and mechanism in the Old Dominion Shoes, which are works of art.

These shoes are made in this city, and are sold by all firstclass dealers throughout this country. These Shoes are made in a variety of forms and weights. The Company will gladly send illustrated catalogue on request.

WAR-TIME ARITHMETIC.

How the Rudiments of Mathematics were Taught to Southern Children.

In a second-hand book store the other day a visitor bought for a dime a little, old, worn, and castaway volume which, in the manner of its forms and examples, told a simple and pathetic story of the gloom and sorrow which darkened even the innocent lives of children at the South during the weary years of war. It was a copy of a school arithmetic, one for beginners, and was published at Raleigh, N. C., in 1863, by Branson & Farrar. The author was L. Johnson, professor of mathematics in Trinity College, who modestly says in his preface:

"The great demand for books at this time of an elementary character in the Southern Confederacy has called forth this little volume. Nothing new or original has been attempted. The compass of the work is such that it can be thoroughly learned by the youth of either sex before their presence at home or the demands of their country debar the privilege of attendance at school."

WAR AND ARITHMETIC.

The spirit which then animated the people of the South is manifest on every page, and in almost every example of this little book. It is the spirit of war. The questions do not ask the youthful scholar how many flowers it would take to enable him to give two to each of his three companions, nor how many peaches John and Charley together would have if one had four and the other three. There is no puzzling inquiry as to how many lambs Jennie would have if to her present nine five others were added, or how many ginger cakes Walter would have left if he divided his dozen equally with Susie.

None of such mild elements would do for the times. The life of the South and the impulses of its people were hedged about by war. Little wonder, then, that the author of this arithmetic should discard the common things of life, and use for illustrating his examples the terrible actual elements involved in the mighty combat, whose thunders floated from bloody fields through the schoolhouse windows. How plainly and how vivilly the influences and forces then engaging the men of the South are shown in the following examples from the little old arithmetic of 1863:

"Five soldiers are in one tent and ten in another. How many soldiers are there in both ?" $^{\prime\prime}$

"Ninety soldiers are in one company and twenty in another. How many soldiers are there in both?"

"Twenty-eight men were sent out on picket duty, four in a company. How many companies were there?"

"A captain of cavalry paid $100 for a horse and $100 more for a pistol. How many dollars did both cost him?"

"A company of 100 men went into an engagement where fifty were killed. How many were left?"

"A Confederate soldier captured eight Yankees each day for nine consecutive days. How many did he capture in all?"

Seven Confederate soldiers captured twenty-one Yankees, and divided them equally between them. How many did each one have?"

"· If one Confederate soldier can whip seven Yankees, how many soldiers can whip forty-nine Yankees?"

"If one Confederate soldier kill ninety Yankees, how many Yankees can ten Confederate soldiers kill?"

"If thirty-two soldiers eat 896 pounds of beef in a week, how many pounds will 175 soldiers eat in a week?"

Established 1835.

Do we weep for the heroes who died for us, Who living were true and tried for us, And dying sleep side by side for us; The Martyr-band

That hallowed our land
With the blood they shed in a tide for us?

Ah! fearless on many a day for us
They stood in front of the fray for us,
And held the foeman at bay for us;
And tears should fall
Fore'er o'er all
Who fell while wearing the Gray for us.

How many a glorious name for us,
How many a story of fame for us
They left: Would it not be a blame for us
If their memories part
From our land and heart,
And a wrong to them, and shame for us?

No, no, no, they were brave for us,
And bright were the lives they gave for us;
The land they struggled to save for us
Will not forget
Its warriors yet

Who sleep in so many a grave for us.

On many and many a plain for us
Their blood poured down all in vain for us,
Red, rich, and pure, like a rain for us;
They bleed—we weep,
We live—they sleep,
'All lost,' the only refrain for us.

But their memories e'er shall remain for us, And their names, bright names, without stain for us; The glory they won shall not wane for us,

In legend and lay
Our heroes in Gray
Shall forever live over again for us.

THE FIGHT OF THE "HATTERAS" AND "ALABAMA."

Off Galveston, the Yankee fleet secure at anchor lay Preparing for a heavy fight they were to have next day; Down came the Alabama, like an eagle o'er the wave, And soon their gunboat Hatteras had found a watery grave.

'Twas in the month of January; the day was bright and clear; The Alabama she bore down; no Yankee did we fear; Their commodore he spied us; to take us long he burned; So he sent the smartest boat he had, but she never back returned!

The sun had sunk far in the west when down to us she came; Our captain quickly hailed her, and asked them for her name; Then spoke our first lieutenant, for her name had roused his ire, "This is the Alabama; now, Alabamas, fire."

Then flew a rattling broadside, that made her timbers shake; And through the holes made in her side the angry waves did break; We then blew up her engine, that she could steam no more—They fired a gun to leeward, and so the fight was o'er.

So thirteen minutes passed away before they gave in beat; A boat had left the Yankee's side, and pulled in for their fleet; The rest we took on board of us, as prisoners to stay; Then stopped and saw their ship go down, and then we bore away.

And now, to give our foes their due, they fought with all their might; But yet they could not conquer us, for God defends the right; One at a time the ships they have to fight us they may come, And rest assured that our good ship from them will never run.

THE NINTH OF APRIL, 1865.

tt is a nation's death-cry; yes, the agony is past,
The stoutest race that ever fought, to-day hath fought its last;
Aye! start and shudder, well thou mayst, well veil thy weeping eyes!
Eugland, may God forgive thy part—man cannot but despise.

Aye, shudder at that cry that speaks the South's supreme despair— Thou that could save and saved'st not—that would, yet did not dare; Thou that hadst might to aid the right and heart to brook the wrong. Weak works of comfort for the weak, strong hands to help the strong

That land, the garden of thy wealth one haggard waste appears— The ashes of her sunny homes are slaked in patriot tears— Tears for the slain who died in vain for freedom on the field— Tears, tears of bitter anguish still for those who live to yield.

The cannon of his country pealed Stuart's funeral knell.

His soldiers' cheers rang in his ears as Stonewall Jackson fell,

Onward o'er gallant Ashby's grave swept war's successful tide,

And Southern hopes were living yet when Polk and Morgan died.

But he, the leader, on whose words those captains loved to wait, The noblest, bravest, best of all, hath found a harder fate; Unscathed by shot and steel he passed o'er many a desperate field, Oh, God! that he hath lived so long, and only lived to yield!

Along the war-worn, wasted ranks that loved him to the last, With saddened face and weary pace the vanquished chieftain passed, Their own hard lot the men forgot, they felt what his must be, What thoughts in that dark hour must wring the heart of General Lee

The manly cheek with tears was wet—the stately head was bow'd, As, breaking from their shatter'd ranks, around his steed they crowd; "I did my best for you"—'twas all those trembling lips could say—Ah! happy those whom death hath spared the anguish of to-day.

Weep on, Virginia! weep these lives given to thy eause in vain—
The sons who live to wear once more the Union's galling chain—
The homes whose light is quench'd for aye—the graves without a stone—
The folded flag—the broken sword—the hope forever flown.

Yet raise thy head, fair land, thy dead died bravely for the right— The folded flag is stainless still—the broken sword is bright; No blot is on thy record found—no treason soils thy fame! Weep thou thy dead—with cover'd head we mourn our England's shame.

CARRYING OUT HIS ORDERS.

Hugh Mc——, a son of the Emerald Isle, who had volunteered in the sixth regiment of South Carolina infantry, was stationed on the beach of Sullivan's Island, with strict orders to walk between two points, and to let no one pass him without the countersign, and that to be communicated only in a whisper. Two hours afterward, the corporal, with the relief, discovered, by the moonlight, Hugh up to his waist in water, the tide having set in since he was posted.

"Who goes there?" "Relief." "Halt, relief. Advance, corporal, and give the countersign."

Corporal.—"I'm not going in there to be drowned. Come out here, and let me relieve you."

Hugh.—"Divil a bit of it. The lieutenant tould me not to lave me post."

Corporal.—"Well, then, I'll leave you in the water all night" (going away as he spoke).

Hugh.—"Halt! I'll put a hole in ye, if ye pass without the countersign. Them's me orders from the leftenant" (cocking and levelling his gun).

Corporal.—"Confound you, everybody will hear it if I bawl out to

Hugh.—"Yes, me darlin, and the leftenant said it must be given in a whasper. In with ye, me finger's on the trigger, and me gun may go off."

The corporal had to yield to the force of the argument and wade in to the faithful sentinel, who exclaimed: "Be jabers, it's well ye've come, the bloody tide has a most drowned me."
